People & Their Stories

Inspired by the Brazilian Museu da Pessoa ("people's museum"), this is the place to post biographies, images, and stories of and by people from Whitley. The short bios can be both about important community members in Whitley's history and people of the present, like you and me.

Hurley Goodall

Ball State University – Digital Media Repository

Hurley C. Goodall was born on May 23rd, 1927, in Muncie Indiana, and passed away on May 12th, 2021, in his Whitley home. Goodall was a lifetime resident of Muncie and an active member of the Whitley community. Goodall accomplished much in his long life and achieved major milestones in History. Goodall was the first black firefighter in Muncie in 1958. He then went on to be the first black man on the Muncie school board in 1970 and was the only black member until he left the board in 1993. In 1978 Goodall made state history and became the first black representative in the Indiana House of Representatives. He served as a democratic representative in the House from 1978 to 1992. He also served as the Indiana Democratic Party secretary from 1989 to 2004.

Reverend John E. Johnson

Ball State University – Digital Media Repository

Born in Norfolk, Virginia on November 4, 1884, Reverend John E. Johnson, an ordained African Methodist Episcopal Minister, arrived in Muncie in 1927 and took up the pastorship at Shaffer Chapel. For a long time, he was the only African American mortician and embalmer in Muncie and owned a funeral home close to the chapel on Highland Avenue. In August 1930 he drove to the neighboring town of Marion to pick up the bodies of Thomas Shipp and Abraham Smith who were lynched by a white mob. Johnson died from the consequences of an automobile accident on June 22, 1931. He was an active member in the Whitley community, a Freemason and a member of several fraternal orders.
